WILCOX & GIBBS SEWING MACHINE.

We would call attention to the following facts in connection with this Machine, which renders it superior to any other in use.

It forms a flat elastic seam which will not rip in wear;
It is entirely noiseless.
A patented device prevents its being turned backward;
The needle cannot be set wrong.
Can be used successfully without other instructions than accompany the Machine;
It received the Gold Medal of the American Institute in 1863. For particulars, enquire of

MEETING OF JEFF. DAVIS' FRIENDS IN NEW YORK.—A New York paper of the [illegible]th August, has the subjoined:

Robert Brown, who was present at the Jeff. Davis meeting in this city the other day, makes affidavit to the following statement of facts: The meeting was first composed of citizens of New York, and then at the suggestion of some one several Southern gentlemen outside were invited inside. When the doors were closed there were ten men present. The object of the meeting was to raise funds to pay the expenses of defending Davis. A Committee was appointed for that purpose, consisting of Mayor Gunther (who was not present), Carlos Butterfield, Thomas Martin, Douglass and Cleary. In the general conversation which ensued, they all agreed that the Davis trial was the most important one in the world's history. Outler quoted from the Declaration of Independence to show that the Southern States had a right to secede. Other New Yorkers took the same ground, citing the opinions of citizens of New York and Massachusetts when the Constitution was formed. Livingston, of Alabama, read from several free State Constitutions which expressed the right to secede. It is said the effect of the trial of Davis would be revolution of sentiment everywhere in favor of the South. It could be proved on trial the secession cause was right and entitled to the sympathies of the world.

Livingston declared that in twenty years the man that accuses the South of having committed treason will be looked upon as a madman and a fool. One of the New Yorkers denounced the execution of Mrs. Surratt as a cool and deliberate murder.

Martin said the Court had no legal jurisdiction, and that the execution was deliberate murder.

Livingston said several Englishmen had told him this cruel murder would send a thrill of horror through Europe. The howl that would be sent back would so cower and terrify the American Government that it will be afraid to bring Jeff Davis to trial. He believed the intention was to keep him lingering in prison.

Martin said Jeff. Davis' friends must keep agitating the matter until the Government is forced to put him on bail.

Livingston said that the Western soldiers hated the negroes so that there had lately been killed in cold blood more than one hundred. He also said Alabama could send a solid delegation of a sound and true Southern men to Congress; that the feeling is universal South that no d—d Yankee must be allowed a foothold in the South. He also informed the meeting that he was on his way to England to raise funds in behalf of Jeff. Davis. He was confident he would be able to raise the requisite amount. A New Yorker said the amount could be raised in New York city.

OUR TWO VETERANS.—The New York Herald of the 1st August thus refers to the two principal American veterans:

"Veterans are no longer a novelty in this country. Every day they pass in honorable pro[illegible] through the streets on their return from [illegible] and battle[illegible]. But we have two veterans, [illegible] both branches of the service, who are [illegible] the most adv[illegible] in age of any living [illegible] of the army and navy of any country. There is the veteran Winfield Scott, who was [illegible] by a party of his fellow-citizens at West Point on the 13th of last [illegible] upon attaining his seventy ninth birth-day. Scott was born during the progress of the Revolutionary War, a few years before the adoption of the Constitution, and ten years after the Declaration of Independence. The great American soldier and the [illegible] are nearly coeval. [illegible] lived through three wars, and each war a victory. The oldest representative of the navy, who also witnessed three wars, is Rear Admiral Charles Stewart, of Philadelphia, who was eighty seven years old on Friday, and has been sixty [illegible] years of his long life in the American navy. He was born in 1778, just after the British evacuated Philadelphia, and he is reported to be 'active, healthy, and [illegible]ful.' These are veterans of whom the country may be proud. Born almost with the Republic, they have lived to see it pass the [illegible] trials out of which few [illegible] have come [illegible]ly."

The following resolutions are printed as genuine, and are said to have been adopted by the inhabitants of Early county, Ga., at a called meeting to signify their accept[illegible] of re-construction:

Whereas, We have for four years most bravely and gallantly contended for our rights with the United States; and whereas, we have been over-powered by numbers;

Resolved, That we will for the present submit to the Constitution of the United States, and all laws in accordance with the same.

Resolved, That we will put down all vagrancy and crime, especially among the black population.

A soldier who was guilty of gross cowardice in the battle of the Wilderness was tried by court-martial in New York for the offence, and sentenced to be shot. He was taken to Broome Street Barracks, but had not been there half an hour when he sent a polite note down to the [illegible] below for a pass. Those in charge of the office failing to keep a correct account of their prisoners, gave the pass, and the result was the fellow walked out and has not been seen since.

General Grant is about to pay a visit to Nova Scotia, agreeably to an invitation recently received from the British officer in command there, in acknowledgment of courtesies extended by the commander of the Potomac Army to certain British officials within his lines last Summer.

It is said that the Government is about to build a railroad from Brazos, Santiago, to Brownsville, so as to make it easier to garrison and provision the posts on the Rio Grande. The country produces nothing, and the troops must receive all their supplies from New Orleans.

Colonel James O. Nixon, formerly editor of the New Orleans Crescent, who took a prominent part in the war, and was a most virulent rebel, is to revive that journal the coming Autumn.

Ships and Ship-Building Remedy Against Marine Disasters

When [illegible] and disaster occurs, [illegible] the [illegible] as was the case a few weeks ago when the Brother Jonathan went down, people anxiously inquire what can be done to prevent the recurrence of such catastrophes. In San Francisco a few years ago, popular indignation against those who persisted in running unseaworthy steamers rose to such a height that the citizens of that place [illegible] moved in the appointment of a committee to inspect all vessels of this class which plied between their city and Panama. Though several of these steamers were declared unfit for service they continued after a short interval to run as before. The indignation and horror which a great disaster like the one that lately happened on our coast, excites are apt to be abated before any effective remedial measures can be taken. A petition to Congress is now circulating in this city, asking for the enactment of a law concerning sea going vessels which shall render them more secure hereafter and which shall cause their owners to make better provision for the safety of passengers, so that in case of accident there may not be a whole sale destruction of life, such as has often heretofore been witnessed.

The interest which our citizens are manifesting in this very important matter is highly commendable. We beg, however, to intimate that the remedy they are proposing, though suggestive of great improvement in the present order of things is not quite efficacious. There is not so much need of an increase in the number of life boats, life preservers, and other apparatus of this kind which a ship shall be required to carry, as there is of a change in the mode of constructing the ship itself. In case of a disaster like that which befel the Jonathan, an additional quantity of cork jackets would have been of little use to the unfortunate people on board. A larger number of boats, even, would probably have availed nothing, as the sea was running so high that the crews could not launch what they had. Under circumstances like these there could be but little hope for those on board unless the ship could be kept afloat. This it would not be possible to do in the case of a vessel built in the ordinary manner. But if ships were properly constructed in separate compartments, they would rarely sink, no matter what accident should happen. In almost every case a vessel built according to this plan could be kept afloat and run into a place of safety. Ships of this kind would cost something more than others, but if they would afford better security for their freight of human lives, this objection ought to be permitted to have no weight with those who employ their capital in the business of trading upon the seas.

We are therefore of opinion that the true remedy lies in law which shall require ships to be built in sections or compartments, so that it will be impossible for them to sink. This will provide for all possible contingencies. Boats and other apparatus are often quite valueless in emergencies, as was shown in the case of the Jonathan. To begin with, no vessel should be allowed to carry passengers at sea, which is not constructed upon the common sense principle herein spoken of. To conclude, no ship should permitted to sail upon any voyage, near or remote, unless she be perfectly staunch and sound, and in all respects a very different sort of craft from many of the old steamers which have plied in the Oregon trade for above a dozen years.

SAD ACCIDENT.—Yesterday (Monday) morning, at an early hour as the stage from Albany to Salem was descending Jackson's Hill about seven miles south of the latter place, the horses ran away. The coach slewed around on a curve in the road, striking against a tree and crashing to pieces. M. H. Adams, Esq., of Canyon City, was instantly killed. J. M. Beach, of Albany, was badly injured and Mr. Heller, of Idaho, had his arm broken. Two other passengers, names unknown, were badly hurt. The driver was seriously injured, and up to yesterday afternoon was still in an unconscious state. The accident was no doubt caused by the slippery condition of the roads after the heavy rains of the night before.

Mr. Adams, the passenger who was killed, was a young gentleman of most estimable character. He had come down from Canyon City but a few days before. On Thursday of last week he was admitted as an attorney to practice law in the Courts of this State. It is a mournful thing to see one who was just entering upon the active theatre of life, large in hope and high in promise, thus suddenly summoned away.

STATE APPORTIONMENT.—East of the mountains there seems to be some objection to the apportionment of members for the Legislative Assembly for 1866. These complaints may not be general in that part of the State, but they are altogether causeless. It is said that one third of the vote of Oregon is east of the mountains, and that those counties should therefore send one third of the members that make up the Legislative body. Now the apportionment is not made on a basis of this kind. The whole population is counted and senators and representatives assigned in proportion thereto. No one ever heard before of taking only the voters of a State or district into account in making an apportionment. If the acres of desert of which Eastern Oregon can boast, were properly enumerated and made the basis of representation, some of those counties would have a much larger number of Legislative members than now. But with an apportionment based on population they have every one which they can justly claim.

A MILITARY PARTY.—It is curious to note that the "Democracy" though filled with indignation and horror at the "unholy war" which was waged so long against their Southern brethren, still persist in running Generals for office. Whenever they want a candidate for office they hunt up some one who, during the war against the rebels, acquired the title of "General," together with a very little cheap and unsubstantial fame. They have lately nominated Generals for gubernatorial honors in both Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Sherman wouldn't stand a candidate for them though earnestly entreated to do so. Wonder if they are not afraid to bestow high civil honors upon those who conducted the [illegible] "wicked war" against the "gallant men of the South"?

CORRECTION.—Some weeks ago a correspondent at Idaho City while giving an account of the assassination of Mr. Pinkham made some remarks reflecting severely upon the alleged conduct of Mr. Ned James in connection with the tragic affair. We have since learned that Mr. James was in no way nearly or remotely, concerned in the matter and that he was not even a witness to the fact. A false accusation by a party at Idaho City caused him to be arrested but on examination he was immediately discharged. We are glad to be able to make this correction.

THE NATIONAL DEBT.—The books of the Treasury Department show that the whole amount of the National Debt on the 31st of July, was $2,757,253,275 86. On the first of October another showing will be made, and for every six months thereafter, the people will be informed of the condition of the Treasury and the amount of the public debt. At present the Department is in easy circumstances having money enough to meet all demands upon it.

Letter from Florence City

Florence City, [illegible] 4, 1865.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

I am remaining much longer in this camp than was my expectation when I last wrote to you. I find that I can make as much here as elsewhere with [illegible].

The [illegible] three weeks [illegible] considerable [illegible] and mining [illegible] favorable [illegible]. The weather is [illegible] and cloudy [illegible] water.

We have [illegible] considerable excitement here during the past week in relation to gold and silver bearing quartz. I [illegible] think we can [illegible] quite as [illegible] such boast as Owyhee, but we are confident [illegible] as they had at the start [illegible] quartz prosperity and here we feel as [illegible] with our prospects.

The latest [illegible] about as [illegible] last July your correspondent [illegible] anxiety to test the [illegible] of quartz in this [illegible] and made many [illegible] in different localities. About four and a half miles to the south east of this place [illegible] and some rock showing in the [illegible] of silver. The vein [illegible] and [illegible] croppings abundant along this vein. Of these he selected some. He also encountered another vein about half a mile to the south of the first and parallel with it, which also gave marked signs of possessing either silver or lead, if not both. Croppings also were taken from this and the rock brought to this place and exhibited. Some pronounced the rock a species of lime stone, others thought it contained some kind of mineral, but none seemed to believe it contained silver. An imperfect test was made of it with such facilities as your correspondent had and a precipitate obtained which he pronounced silver. Some of the rock was exhibited to Capt. Irving who happened here from Washoe [illegible] an extensive operator in a silver mine in that district. He thought it had indications of silver, though not sufficiently strong to warrant much prospecting in the vein. It was compared with some of the Washoe rock and a material difference observed though a similar precipitate could be obtained from it. A few other men went and examined these veins, but none of them seemed to have faith in them. A small quantity was taken to Lewiston and shown to Hurley the assayer. He could see no evident trace of silver in it, and hence nothing more was done in relation to it till about three weeks since. A couple of men named R. Liddle and A. Harper brought a quantity of the rock from the upper vein to the store of Fenn & Woodward at this place and desired them to send it off for assay. They accordingly sent about six pounds of the rock to R. Hurley, Esq., the assayer at Lewiston who made an assay of several portions of it and obtained, as he informed us the other day, from $400 to $700 to the ton. He was so much taken with its indications that instead of sending back the result of his assay, he mounted a horse and came post haste to bring the result with him and make an examination of the vein. He with others, went upon the vein and prospected in two or three different places and laid the vein bare and found it about fifteen inches in width, and rich with silver ore. They sank not more than two feet on the vein in any place, and found a good quantity of rock which Hurley thinks will assay in silver not less than $800 to the ton and in gold not less than $100. A company of six was soon found and claims duly located and recorded and men employed to open the vein and extract a large quantity of the rock to be sent below for crushing and smelting.

Your correspondent has seen much rock from Owyhee, South Boise, and Washoe but has seen none which gave better indications of richness in silver than does this rock. Although the knowledge of the richness of this ore was not known in camp till the evening of August 30th, yet before the eve of Sept 1st, a large number of claims had been located on this side, and since then men have been ranging the mountains in the vicinity with almost indescribable zeal, in the full confidence of making other discoveries. Several claims have been located on the lower vein. Water rights have also been located, and ranch stations and timber rights, all dependent upon the confidence shown in the silver-bearing rock in the vicinity. The bubble may burst and leave their confident hopes a blank. But they certainly now are exhilarated with the prospect of becoming rich stock holders in quartz, and while the exhilaration lasts their faces will shine with pleasure—one of the recuperating periods in a miners life. Should other assayers who may test this rock express a similar confidence in its value, it may reasonably be expected that quartz stock operators will soon find it convenient to pay a flying visit to what some term the deserted camp of Florence.

The veins discovered cross the trail leading from Florence to the mouth of Meadow creek, thence to Warren's Camp, are on the north side of Salmon river and respectively about one mile and one and a half miles from the Meadow creek ferry on said Salmon river, known as James M. Hunt's ferry. Good accommodations are furnished at the ferry house, so that strangers who come this way need not fear the suffering for want of the eatables and drinkables.

Many persons have recently been leaving this section for the Blackfoot and Prickly Pear mines, from which have come ever highly favorable reports both of their extent and richness. Your correspondent knows nothing of these mines, more than others around here, save by a letter received from a friend who has lately returned from there, which affirms that some claims worked there are paying very largely, that the gold is valued at seventeen dollars per ounce, that nearly ten thousand men are in that country, that all kinds of miners supplies are in demand at high prices and gold dust plentifully in circulation, and that business assumes somewhat the appearance of that of California in 1849. Such a presentation of the prospects there is sufficient to disturb the equilibrium of the minds of most of the older camps, and induce many to tread with quick though often weary steps in the direction of the new Eldorado.

I suppose that we must now become content that Coeur d'Alene is a fizzle, Palouse now paying and Dixie Creek too limited to satiate the gold thirst of the multitude who seek their fortunes in the mines. It is hard to find hopes so vain, yet there is an indomitable perseverance in the American miner which seems to brook almost all disappointments and renders hope ever buoyant even till his locks are white. In this lies the secret of all our important discoveries. LELAND.

THE BLACKFOOT TRADE.—A correspondent of the Walla Walla Statesman says of the Montana trade:

It is now nearly demonstrated that Fort Union is the head of navigation on the Missouri. From [illegible] five hundred and eighty miles of land transportation to Benton [illegible] one hundred and twenty more to Silver Creek (the nearest mines of importance to Benton) one hundred and thirty five to Helena and one hundred and fifty to Blackfoot. All the country between [illegible] is infested with hostile Indians and steamboats must literally fight their way from Fort Union, and [illegible] the question resolves itself down to four hundred and fifty miles against seven hundred [illegible] means of transportation—[illegible] kind and quality of goods. If the people on this side move in the matter it is possible [illegible] themselves a vast and increasing trade, amounting to thousands, if they miss of [illegible] they will [illegible] thousands of their best products which [illegible] will go east for supplies.

A CURIOSITY.—We have in our possession a queer [illegible] intended for disguise. The article is made of [illegible] taken [illegible] by a party in pursuit of horse thieves, [illegible] which in his hurry [illegible] his hat, to which the article [illegible] give the appearance of being the correct [illegible] Indian [illegible] description [illegible] Indians [illegible] Walla Walla [illegible].

[illegible] Large quantities of wheat are [illegible] brought into town by the farmers the bulk of which [illegible] being sold at $1 00 [illegible] but we are not [illegible] willing to buy at that price at present. [illegible] we may [illegible] that the market will open at 62½ and 75 cents per bushel according to quality. What may be the tendency of the market time alone will determine. The prospect for any considerable increase in the price of wheat, however, is not flattering.—Albany Journal.

Brigadier General B. Alvord formerly commander of the District of Oregon, has been ordered to report for duty to Major General J. G. Foster, commanding the Department of Florida.

The Mines of Middle John Day's River

We are permitted to make [illegible] extract from a letter written from the new mines on John Day's river, to a gentleman of this city:

FRIEND W.—I have been here [illegible] one week to-day and have seen every [illegible] and nearly every claim in the vicinity that is working or paying, and [illegible] going to be a good [illegible] nothing like Boise Basin but will compare favorably with Canyon City or Warren. Some of the [illegible] within the past week [illegible] from $1,200 to $2,000. This I think [illegible] place for a man to set himself down, with the [illegible] of remaining two or three [illegible] now is rather scarce from the fact that the [illegible] but few claims open [illegible] that are working are paying well, and the gold sells readily for [illegible], at from $18 to $17 per [illegible]. It is a common thing to see pieces that are worth from $16 to $60. Yesterday one company picked up in their hum without washing $1 [illegible] [illegible] selling at a fair price. Flour sells [illegible] $16, plain $11, sugar [illegible] and so on, with but very little credit. The only store that has any stock is Pinney & Stearns formerly of Idaho City, who have perhaps $5,000 worth of stock [illegible] I should judge there are about 500 men in and about the place and daily coming in in squads of [illegible] who stop one, two or three days and then leave in disgust. But one thing I am confident [illegible] that is, there is ground enough already prospected to make as good if not better camp than Warren ever was. The town which is situated at the mouth of Elk Creek is building up fast. There are in course of construction fifteen or twenty buildings intended for stores, whiskey shops, restaurants, stables &c. The most of the goods here were brought to Canyon City and reshipped to this place. Goods may or may not [illegible] before next spring, it wholly depends upon the number of men that winter here and the amount of goods brought in this fall, at any rate there will be considerable work going on during the winter in the way of drifting which several claims are now preparing for.

KOOTENAI.—Our fellow townsman M. C. Cosgrove, returned this week from Kootenai and brings no encouraging news from that section, unless we except that H. B. M.'s consequential high constable and tax gatherers will soon be relieved of their arduous duties and lucrative positions, on account of the failure of the mines and the consequent departure of nearly all the miners for Blackfoot. The mines have not, by far, proved as lucrative this summer as was expected, and the little gold that has been taken out has nearly all been absorbed by the cockneyed officials for duties and taxes. Miners with barely enough money to pay their expenses out of the country and travelling on foot at that, had attempted to make their exodus without paying their "export duties on gold, and had been followed by these "paid pensioners of a petticoat government and their little all "confiscated"—in some instances as little as an ounce being taken from them. There are probably not over 150 men in the mines and this number is being rapidly decimated by the emigration to Blackfoot. Of the merchants and traders who went there to do business there seem after all their toil and "masterly strategy" to avoid the blood sucking officials who seem to be ambushed behind every rock and tree in the diggings and on the road—few will return with their purses as "plethoric" as when they went. Mr. C. did not forbid us, and we put his resolution on record, viz: "If he gets forgiveness for going this time, he will never desecrate the soles of American made boots by setting them on the soil of a British mining camp again."—B. B. Statesman.

GOLD DIGGINGS.—Men are at work below town five miles, making $3 to $5 per day with rockers, working the bars of the Columbia river. Above the Umatilla rapids, a few miles up stream, pay dirt is found and mining is going on there the diggers realizing fair pay, as high as eight dollars per day we have heard mentioned as being taken out, in one instance. The gold is fine, as fine as flour, and is saved by the use of copper plates charged with quicksilver. There is no excitement here about the diggings. A thousand miles from here, we suppose men will discuss the chances of profitable employment, and become convinced that they are good, the usual rule being for the worth of mines to increase in ratio to their distance. A pan of dirt taken at random from any of the bars of the Columbia, both above and below Umatilla, will give several colors and at points where the "drift" is right deposits are found that will pay for working. Low water is the time for operations, and men were mining through the last winter, and in the spring until rise of water drove them from their ground. Prospecting we believe, would lead to the discovery of a large amount of fair paying diggings along the Columbia river, and any one satisfied to clear from $40 to $75 per month, will find ground that will pay them these wages.—Umatilla Advertiser.

THE EUROPEAN PAPERS APPEALING FOR JEFF DAVIS.—The London Times and other tory English journals and the Imperial organs of France, are clamorous for the life of Jeff Davis and his immediate followers, and some of the liberal papers also counsel us to spare him on the principle that no man should suffer death for political offenses. The New York Times in answering them says:

We say his death for treason. We will not admit the possibility of his escape from death, if it be proved that he was privy to the assassination of President Lincoln or that he caused the barbarities upon our prisoners. Such crimes, if they are established upon him will leave the government no alternative to ridding the earth of its worst monster. To beg for any reason under heaven, that he might be spared, would be a crime against the race.

SAFES!

TILTON & M'FARLAND'S

CELEBRATED

SAFES!

THE ONLY RELIABLE SAFE

on this Coast.

THE FOLLOWING IS TAKEN FROM THE Detroit Tribune of June 26th, 1865:

DARING ROBBERY.—On the night of the 16th inst., the Treasurer's office of Macomb county, Michigan, was entered, the safe broken open, and robbed of $7,000. The safe was laid upon its back, and the door entirely demolished with a sledge-hammer. We learn from highly authentic sources that the robbers could not have worked over ten minutes before entering the safe.

Persons now using the chilled iron safes should be very careful of depositing large sums of money in them, unless some one is sleeping with. The safe above alluded to was purchased only a few months ago of Lillie's agent, and warranted both fire and burglar-proof. As soon as "Lillie's agent" heard of the robbery, he at once went to Mount Clemens, and (as we are told) tried to reconcile the matter, by offering the county a new safe, and asking at once to remove the old one. However, in this he has been foiled. The question now arises among the County Commissioners, are not Lillie & Son responsible for the stolen property, after warranting their safe both fire and burglar proof? The people of Macomb county are anxious that this thing should be looked to.

[illegible] TRADE.—We noticed yesterday, in the [illegible] the Printer, a job office in this city, a letter to [illegible] several of our leading business houses to the [illegible] community of Montana, concerning the [illegible] of trade between the two sections. The distance [illegible] and the cost of laying down goods [illegible] that region from Portland [illegible] Montana [illegible] to this side [illegible] as much for the [illegible] Rocky [illegible] the transportation of freight [illegible] to avail themselves [illegible] millions of dollars annually [illegible] The [illegible] of the Montana [illegible] of August 5th says [illegible] the Missouri [illegible] which the boats [illegible] along the river [illegible] Quite an effort [illegible] of the boats to fill their contracts and deliver the freight to Fort Benton [illegible] Walla Walla Statesman [illegible] there is a way to do it, and a way [illegible]

[illegible] to do it.—Establish [illegible] drop the policy of attracting [illegible] the best and most direct route [illegible] and every thing by the quickest [illegible] Above all [illegible] content with small profits and [illegible] the home for competition [illegible] going out [illegible] abroad about the roads [illegible] and waste twice as much money [illegible] build one good road.

It is estimated that the cost of transportation from [illegible] the Black Foot City will not exceed [illegible] over the route published in this [illegible] few days since, and which will be practical at [illegible] of the year. The building of a steam[illegible] Pend d'Oreille lake is no idle talk, and by such [illegible] that it is quite probable a daily line of [illegible] and [illegible] communication will place us within speaking [illegible] of the richest and most extensive mines in the [illegible]

[illegible] MINES.—Mr Julien, former [illegible] Cheer House in this city, returned [illegible] the mines on the [illegible] the most encouraging character. At this time [illegible] There are three streams upon which mines [illegible] French creek [illegible] French and Gold creeks [illegible] Barnes' creek. The surface diggings on these [illegible] pay about $8 per day to the hand [illegible] caused by the heavy [illegible] all of this, and have the mines [illegible] The same difficulty [illegible] which have rendered the [illegible] and disgusting to all Americans. On [illegible] a shaft had been sunk forty two feet [illegible] was taken out in one day, but nothing [illegible] would pay. The prospects [illegible] "high bed rock," and possibly [illegible] better by sinking another shaft [illegible] the diggings must be very rich [illegible] above old Fort [illegible] very rapid, dangerous and [illegible] Capt White's steamer is completed [illegible] be able to get supplies in less time, which [illegible] months to obtain, and done in [illegible] to work, when they expect [illegible]

[illegible]—The life, public services, and State papers [illegible] Abraham Lincoln, written by Henry J. Raymond, editor of the New York Times, is now offered [illegible] of Oregon through Mr. T. H. Mills, canvasser. The prospectus of the work now before [illegible] it will be a [illegible] octavo volume of [illegible] neatly and substantially bound in cloth [illegible] library style. A fine steel portrait of [illegible] with thirteen other engravings [illegible] the book. The well known reputation of [illegible] is sufficient guarantee that the book will be [illegible] work, [illegible] containing the State papers [illegible] addresses, messages, letters, [illegible] will be included in the work. Also a [illegible] tragical and mournful scenes connected [illegible] of his noble and [illegible] life. The book [illegible] only by subscription, by the canvassing [illegible] those who desire to procure a copy of the [illegible] work from one so conversant with the theme [illegible] must be, should not fail to subscribe [illegible] upon by Mr. Mills.

[illegible]—The following is the decision of the [illegible] who are [illegible] under [illegible] 80, Section 79, Internal Revenue laws:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Washington, June 12, 1865.

I have to say that Article 80, of Section 79 [illegible] duty of $10 upon common carriers, and is [illegible] to extend to and include railroad companies, [illegible] freighting vessels, teamsters [illegible] in carrying articles for pay, [illegible] exceed the sum of six [illegible] (1000) per annum.

Very [illegible]
E. A. ROLLINS,
Deputy Commissioner.

[illegible] under the above ruling will find the [illegible] at the office, 100 Front street, [illegible] a license, or they will be liable [illegible] in such cases provided for neglect.

[illegible]—The streets of this city just now present [illegible] condition of things, literally everything [illegible] The act of [illegible] only by the almost [illegible] and to get [illegible] of dispatch requires that the [illegible] boots, the corks putting to shame [illegible] of a blank [illegible] The state of the streets cannot be of long [illegible] as the work upon them is in a [illegible] only needs that [illegible] grin and bear it [illegible] The bad weather of the past few [illegible] of what is what is to be, and [illegible] to six weeks of good weather yet [illegible]

[illegible]—The city of Portland will have an opportunity [illegible] a Hall for the [illegible] of carry[illegible] want in a better manner, if the [illegible] they can afford the outlay. The [illegible] use by the county will be offer[illegible] [illegible] Chamber [illegible] manner so [illegible] city to [illegible] expense of [illegible]

[illegible] Fort [illegible] of his [illegible] contained [illegible] The [illegible] fruit [illegible] have [illegible] Mr. Daly of this city has [illegible] not less than one hundred [illegible]

[illegible] A. E. Vinton, special [illegible] appointed to look after the interests of the [illegible] and Montana, is now in this city [illegible] field of his labors. We trust the people [illegible] may be better favored than [illegible] in this respect. The Southern rebels and [illegible] to receive more attention just now [illegible] facilities of mail transportation, and the [illegible] attendant upon it, than we are per[illegible]

[illegible]—Letters dated at Fort Halleck [illegible] written by persons en route to Portland [illegible] of an attack by Indians on a train of [illegible] in which one woman, belonging to [illegible] were attacked, was actually cut to pieces [illegible] twelve miles from the Fort [illegible] A girl 16 years of age was taken away [illegible] Three wagons were burned and the [illegible] Three such attacks had been made since [illegible] left the Missouri river.

[illegible]—A crowd of children were playing about a [illegible] planking in the Third Ward yesterday, [illegible] boy was badly injured by falling with his [illegible] on a rusty spike, inflicting a serious wound. [illegible] It is not right to tear up old planking, [illegible] the spikes as they are liable to [illegible] other circumstances than such as is called [illegible]

[illegible]—RESTRICTIONS. [illegible] that the Quarter[illegible] at Fort Stevens will be [illegible] most of that at Cape Hancock. Capt Potter [illegible] at Cape Hancock, but has turned over all that [illegible] at Fort Stevens to [illegible] Saunders. Officers [illegible] not very much needed at the latter post, and [illegible] before the [illegible] will be upon us.

[illegible] Band of [illegible] that the [illegible] has taken its [illegible] for the upper country [illegible] people [illegible] of this place. We understand [illegible] company [illegible] of troops [illegible] Hall.

[illegible]—[illegible] arrives from Baker's Bay [illegible] the [illegible] and the [illegible] of the bay, and [illegible] promises to be quite a [illegible]

A [illegible] of WINTER. The weather for some days past has been [illegible] the [illegible] partaking of chilly [illegible] The thermometer [illegible]

[illegible]—Oregon [illegible] evening but had not arrived up to twelve o'clock.

A correspondent, writing from Richmond, relates an incident as follows:

Talking of oaths reminds me of a local joke [illegible] cannot resist recording. A [illegible] young country girl on applying for rations to one of our relief agents a few days ago, was asked if she had ever taken the oath. "No, indeed, sir," was her [illegible] reply. "I never swore in all [illegible]" "But you must take the oath, my good [illegible]" said the agent, "or I cannot give you the [illegible]" "No, indeed, I can't, sir," said the [illegible] "mother always taught me never to swear." The agent mildly persisted, and the maiden persistently refused all attempts at persuasion, until [illegible] at last, by the dreadful conflict between [illegible] and her high sense of moral duty, she [illegible] out, with downcast lids, "Well, sir, if [illegible] make me do such a horrid, wicked thing, [illegible] the Yankees!"

The Copperheads are continually felicitating themselves upon the prospect as they pretend of carrying the State election next June. They have been drivelling in this manner for the last five or six years. We all remember how their papers here predicted just before the last State and Presidential elections that Abolitionism was certainly on the decline. Yet they were beaten then just as they will be again and again.

[illegible] Fort [illegible] sunk some weeks ago in [illegible] river has been raised. The Victoria paper say that her machinery is to be taken out. We are not informed whether the boat will be made of use hereafter.

Brevet Major General E. M. McCook has been ordered to report by letter for duty to General McDowell, of the Department of California.

Judge [illegible] of Washington Territory was recently severely injured at Victoria by a fall from his horse. He will recover.

THE GEM OF THE [illegible]—the world says is SOZODONT. It renders the teeth pearly white, gives to the breath a fragrant odor, extinguishing [illegible] humors which usually flow from a bad and neglected set of teeth. Sozodont is so convenient and produces a sensation at once so delightful that makes it a pleasure to use it.

The Pacific Railroad

The following is a portion of a recent letter written from Denver, Colorado, by Bishop Kingsley and published in the Christian Advocate and Journal of New York. The letter is well worthy of an attentive perusal. It is about the most cogent argument in favor of the Pacific Railroad that we have ever seen.

My object in writing this is to induce you, and every man, woman, and child, east and west, north and south, to hurry up the Pacific Railroad. A stage ride of six hundred and fifty miles without stopping except to get a meal and these meals sometimes being "few and far between," is one of the reasons which I should urge if governed by my feelings. Then another similar ride ahead of an equal distance provided the "friendly Indians" will allow of it to be followed by yet another of nearly a thousand miles, is more argument of the same sort. But if this is not sufficiently convincing I will proceed to show that the speedy completion of this road is a military, commercial and religious necessity.

1. It is a military necessity. Our government is now at war with the Indians. The latter have destroyed and stolen millions' worth of property and taken many lives, and are still continuing their depredations in all parts of the West. The signs are unmistakable, to those best prepared to judge, that we are about to have a general Indian war. Even the most friendly tribes are stealing continually; and they have been let alone so long that they have become emboldened, believing that they can continue to do as they have done with impunity. The government has at length undertaken to put a stop to these depredations, and General Conner is vigorously at work. But when we get as far west as Fort Halleck corn is worth $12 per bushel, oats $7, flour $50 per barrel, hay $100 per ton, and everything else in proportion, owing entirely to the cost of transportation, which has increased on account of the danger to the freighting trains. Besides all this, the time it takes an army without a railroad to move a thousand or fifteen hundred miles gives the Indians an opportunity to strike at different points along the route, plunder and kill, and then be off to a new field of robbery and slaughter before they can be reached. It now costs, I am informed, twenty-five cents per pound to procure transportation from the Missouri to this place and the price goes on [illegible] in geometrical ratio as we go further and further from civilization. Millions and millions of money would be saved to the government [illegible] if the road were now built even to here, (Denver), and its completion would enable the government at any time to quell any Indian disturbances in the shortest time.

These Indians being yet in a state of childhood, so far as intellectual and educational development is concerned, need occasional chastising. Nothing else will do. To the questions, "What shall be done with the African and the Indian?" I have short answers. Make men of them. Give the African the right of suffrage on the same conditions that the white man enjoys it, and neither the one or the other ought to be allowed to vote without being able to read. But if the white man is thus allowed, so should the colored man be. These are my politics on this question. How I wish President Johnson would see things in this light!

To make men of the Indians, in my opinion, requires that they should be collected together and put in one place, large enough and fertile enough to enable them to make a good living, and to grow rich even, by following the pursuits of civilized life. I have no fellowship with that sentimentalism which is ready to die of grief because the red man is not allowed to hold back civilization and Christianity just for the sake of being a savage. There is no reason why an ignorant pagan should be allowed land enough for hunting-ground to sustain a thousand civilized and Christianized persons living in accordance with the precepts of the Gospel. It now costs millions of money to disburse the annuities to the Indians, scattered as they are all over the territories. It is time they were collected together and governed, and taught that they must now earn a livelihood by honest industry, and not by hunting, war and plunder. This course, in my judgment is most humane, to the Indian himself, and the only one that will preserve the race from utter extinction, if even this will do it. But at present there is a war on hand, and the Indian must be caught before he can be reduced to civilization. Hence the military necessity of having this road as speedily finished as possible.

2. It is a very easy thing, as it seems to me, to show that the Pacific Railroad is a commercial necessity. Having now spent nearly a month in this territory, and visited extensively the mining regions, and made a good many inquiries of the people as to business, prices, prospects, etc., I have learned that, [illegible] a thing with another throughout the catalogue of commodities consumed by the citizens, it [illegible] times as much to live here as in the [illegible] to the cost of [illegible].

Flour is worth fifty dollars per barrel; petroleum four to five dollars per gallon; sugar fifty cents a pound, potatoes [illegible] dollars a [illegible], oats six to [illegible] dollars a bushel; labor five to ten dollars a day; wages of servant girls eight to twelve dollars a week. The result is it costs three times as much to produce a dollar's worth of gold as it would if the price of living and consequently the price of labor, was reduced to one-third its present [illegible]. There is no estimating how much such a reduction would enrich the whole mining region. Now this triple price of everything is sunk by six hundred and fifty miles of wagon transportation over the plains between here and the Missouri river and the difficulty increases as we go yet further west. All the heavy machinery used in crushing quartz, which lines the way from the Missouri river to the base of the Rocky Mountains has to be freighted across the plains at a cost of from fifteen to twenty-five cents a pound. A single boiler costs as much as $1,500 for transportation. The heavy machinery for the stamp mills costs in the same way.

Gold bearing quartz which yields $30 per ton at present rates of labor in the mines—from $7 to $11 a day—just pays cost of working. In the placer diggings a man must get $7 to $10 in order to live by it. Washings that yield only $5 or $6 to the man have to be abandoned.

Now if labor was reduced to one third its present rate, as it would be by bringing down the price of living, the ton of quartz yielding [illegible] could be worked for $10, leaving a profit of [illegible] to the ton. The mill that could reduce [illegible] per day instead of no profit would then gain [illegible] per day and other ore all the way down [illegible] $10 to the ton could be worked with profit. And placer diggings yielding $5 and $6 to the man now abandoned, would afford fine profit.

Just think of it! The mining region of the Rocky Mountains averages more than a [illegible] miles square. It contains about eleven [illegible] thousand square miles, enough to make [illegible] large States. And the amount of precious metals in this vast area is without computation.

With the [illegible] which ready and cheap transportation to and from the States would give the mining business $500,000,000 per annum [illegible] at all an extravagant estimate of the treasure that would be produced in a few years.

This railroad and not the sale of the mining lands is what the country and the Government needs to insure the prosperity of both. The increased value which the opening of these hidden treasures of wealth will bring to the United States will do more ten times over [illegible] for the payment of the public debt than to sell out the mining lands to speculators. It is not with mining as it is with farming lands. The latter show just what they are from the beginning. Mines are found after laborious and expensive prospecting, that is hunting for the mineral. And even after a lead has been found, no man, not even the experienced miner can tell whether it will prove a rich mine or not. Some mines that promise the best at the beginning turn out in a little time to be worthless. Others which at first were not near so good turn out immensely profitable in the end. It requires an outlay from twenty-five to [illegible] hundred thousand dollars to open and develop a mine [illegible] which [illegible] is going to [illegible] sure thing. The only practicable way is to go along with the [illegible] let the lode [illegible] the benefit of his discovery. He must invest a large amount of capital or get up a company that can invest [illegible] before it can be [illegible] whether or not he has found a valuable mine. And when he has thus discovered and developed the mine does any one think it would be just for the government to put up this mine at auction and give the [illegible] who has not expended [illegible] cent [illegible] with him who has endured the [illegible] and privations and dangers incident to a miner's life.

To farm out the mining lands into lots to be [illegible] would be the most ridiculous thing in the world. One lot of a quarter of an acre might be worth a million of dollars; the next thousand acres might not be worth ten cents.

For government to go to prospecting would [illegible]. It would require at least two hundred thousand men to hunt through the vast region. The cost of supporting such an army of gold hunters working for a salary and not with the hope of discoveries that may enrich them personally, would be equal to the expenses of the late war per annum. Such a procedure would cost many times more than all the [illegible] of the mining lands would come to.

The only practicable thing is to allow him who risks life and limb, who hunts amid snows and [illegible] and wild beasts for a mine, to enjoy the [illegible]. Then the real motives to industry operate, not otherwise.

It is proper for the government to establish an income tax by which all mines shall pay in proportion to their value. This will be equitable. The mine that is worth nothing will pay nothing. Men that are rapidly accumulating wealth can afford to pay a proportionate tax.

This is the way the matter is looked at here among practical men, and I am persuaded this is the way it would look to those who are advocating the sale of the mining lands if they could see the real working of the thing as it is.

3. I have said the Pacific Railroad is a religious necessity. The policy of our church is to send the minister along with the tide of emigration. This vast region, for a good while to come must be supplied with ministers from the east. At present rates it will cost a minister with a small family a thousand dollars to come to this point. It will cost another thousand to get to Salt Lake, and another thousand to Idaho. Our ministers as all are aware, are not able to make such moves as this. The railroad will cheapen this expense tenfold.

Besides, the region from the Missouri river to the base of the Rocky mountains affords one of the most practicable routes for a railroad anywhere to be found. There is not a hill for the whole six hundred and fifty miles. The grade is already the most perfect that can be imagined. It is a remarkable fact that the Platte river on the south side has no tributaries of any account. For three hundred miles not a stream puts into it. The consequence is there are no bridges to be built. Nebraska can furnish cedar for the ties, until met by the pine and spruce of the Rocky mountains. The country which the railroad will pass through from the Missouri to the Rocky mountains, although it has been called a desert in our geographies, is the grand pasture of the world. Most of it is anything else than a desert. I have said we have a mining region large enough for twenty five States. We have here a pasture field as large as Great Britain, France and Spain all put together. Although it seldom rains on these vast plains, yet there is abundance of nutritious grass and cattle, horses, and sheep keep fat on it all winter. It is a country capable of producing beef, butter, cheese, and wool in the greatest quantity and perfection. I close as I began, by hurrying up everybody to build this road.

THE CROPS.—The universal testimony in regard to the crops every where in this Territory is that they are more abundant than ever before since its settlement. Grass has been particularly good owing in some measure to the cool and showery summer. The same weather has tended to develop good crops of vegetables and grain. Repeated inquiries among the farmers of Boise valley show that the yield of every kind of grain sown or planted is fully equal to expectations. This is encouraging. The cricket plague which, however, was confined to a few localities appears to have been the only drawback that farmers in Idaho have had to contend with this season. There was not as much land sown and planted as should have been, but that was almost unavoidable.

The terrible losses of stock and seed that had been fed to stock last winter crippled many so that they were unable to put in a large crop. The four [illegible] in the Boise valley caused many a hundred acres of bottom land to lie idle this summer, that were cultivated last. Both these failures or drawbacks will be remedied next summer and a still more prosperous year will be the result. It is just beginning to be understood that Idaho instead of being dependent upon neighboring States and Territories for the products of the farm, is abundantly capable of supporting many times her present population, if only the available lands be cultivated as they should be.—Idaho Statesman.

CIVIL LAW IN GEORGIA.—Provisional Governor James Johnson has issued his proclamation calling a State Convention and appointing a day for electing delegates thereto. The election is to be held on the 4th of October and the convention will assemble in Milledgeville on the 25th of the same month. The citizens are reminded that in order to be entitled to vote or to become candidates for election to the convention they must previously subscribe to the oath of allegiance to the National Government, and this they are earnestly advised to do. They are also informed that slavery is extinct and therefore no person in the State can hereafter control the labor of another, excepting so far as he may be legally entitled to do so by the terms of a contract voluntarily entered into by the laborer. The administration of civil law, to a great extent is to remain in abeyance till a State Government shall have been chosen, but in the meantime order will be preserved, if necessary by the military.

THE FIRST.—The men engaged on the Cascade Mt. and Willamette Wagon Road near the summit of the mountains were surprised one day last week by the arrival, at that place, of a freight team and wagon, en route for this valley. The adventurous owner had traveled alone all the way from Canyon City, the greater part of the way over a road hitherto untraveled by wagons, without meeting with anything to seriously retard his progress until he came within about five miles of where the men were at work on the road. At that point he left his wagon and drove his stock through to the valley. In the course of ten days more the road will be completed and the wagon can be brought through without difficulty. These facts satisfactorily demonstrate the practicability of this new road and ere long the people of the Upper Willamette valley will begin to realize the value of this thoroughfare connecting them with the rich mining region in Eastern Oregon.—Al[illegible]

THE POOR WHITES AND NEGROES.—In a late speech at Boston on the subject of extending suffrage to the colored man, Henry Ward Beecher gave a ludicrous description of his visit to South Carolina, where the black people were black. He compared their heads with those of the poor whites and declared the blacks to be of much the best stock. The whites were so mean, pale and abject that Death on a pale horse would not take them up behind him. In South Carolina the question was not what would become of the black man but what would become of the poor whites? There would be ten white paupers to one black and ten white thieves to one colored thief, and this although the negro has been subject to the example of his master stealing all his life from him and then attempting to steal into the kingdom of heaven.

SENATOR SEWARD'S PRESERVER.—It is proposed to give a substantial testimonial to George F. Robinson, who saved Mr. Seward's life at the risk of his own from the attack of the assassin Payne. A number of [illegible] friends have arranged a plan for the sale of his photograph, and the [illegible] subscription to them is signed by Gov. Cony, Gen. Howard, Secretary McCulloch, and others. [illegible] was born [illegible] July [illegible] at Springfield, Maine. He has already been presented with a farm in Wisconsin and is now settled there and enjoys himself without [illegible] to enliven the winter evening.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.—The United States Pacific Telegraph Company have placed [illegible] miles [illegible] under contract [illegible] between Omaha, Nebraska Territory and Virginia City and San Francisco, [illegible] will be completed the winter [illegible]. The wire has been purchased for the entire line and the balance of the poles will be put this fall. It is expected that the whole line between Omaha and San Francisco will be completed and in operation in a year from [illegible] next.

General Scott says that [illegible] think he is proud of his pomp simply because he is tall and erect. For he recollects [illegible] expressed surprise at his [illegible] but remarked [illegible] my [illegible] be six feet four inches high and to have a straight spine. Had I been round-shouldered or had a hump on my back it would have relieved the [illegible] in the public eye.

THE ASSASSINS AT THE DRY TORTUGAS.—Brigadier General Dodd, who had charge of the assassins Mudd, Arnold, O'Laughlin and Spangler and who delivered them to the [illegible] at Dry Tortugas, made his report to the War Department on the 3d of August and was discharged from his special [illegible].

General Dodd reports that on [illegible] Dr. Mudd acknowledged to Captain Dutton [illegible] that he knew Booth when he came to his house with Herold the morning after the assassination, but was afraid to [illegible] been there fearing the life of himself and family would be endangered thereby. He knew that Booth would never be taken alive. He acknowledged that he had been with Booth in his room, and that he was with Booth at the National Hotel on the evening referred to by Weichman; that he met Booth in the street and Booth said he wanted him [illegible] to John Surratt, that they started up Seventh street on the way to Mrs. Surratt's [illegible] on the way they met John Surratt and Weichman and returned to Booth's room at the National, where he and John Surratt had [illegible] of a private character. He [illegible] the Military Commission in his case, but [illegible] duty, and as far as they went on [illegible] in his case was just, but [illegible] the witnesses had sworn falsely and maliciously.

O'Laughlin acknowledged that the court had done its duty, and said that he was in the plot to capture the President, but that after [illegible] the final attempt in March, when the party hoped to have captured the coach on the road to [illegible] he thought that the entire project was given up, and it was as far as he was concerned. He then positively that he had part [illegible] in the plot to assassinate the President, General Grant or any one else.

Sam Arnold made about the same statement as he did before the trial—that he was in the plot to capture, but not to assassinate; that that had failed, and he considered himself out of it, and never knew anything about the assassination which he thought was gotten up by Booth only a few hours before executing it. He thought the Court could not have done otherwise than it did. He expressed his sorrow that he had been led into the plot to capture by Booth and others, and expressed himself thankful that the punishment was no worse.

Spangler on the voyage, expressed some impatience at his own stupidity in not having recollected while on trial a circumstance in connection with Booth's escape from the stage that would have told materially to his (Spangler's) advantage. Some of the testimony went to show that Spangler had slammed the door [illegible] exit, in a way to hinder immediate pursuit. Spangler says it quite escaped his recollection that sometime previous to the assassination a patent spring had been put on the door for the purpose of closing it when left carelessly open. He says, however that he supposes the court had done right, and if they gave him plenty of work and plenty to eat he was satisfied. Although he was not guilty, and knew nothing of Booth's intentions he says that he did say to Booth "I will do all I can for you," but that it was in reference to selling his (Booth's) horse and buggy and that it was three days before the assassination. He said that some of the witnesses lied in their testimony, especially about his slapping any one on the mouth, and telling him to keep his mouth shut.

A NOVEL AND NOTEWORTHY SCHEME.—The Legislature took no practical action upon the suggestion of Governor Andrew in regard to the surplus women of Massachusetts, but in other quarters more nearly interested, what was said on the subject was listened to with genuine interest. In Washington Territory, one of the most fertile and promising regions on the Pacific coast, there are eight thousand single men to less than a hundred single women. The executive authorities of the Territory resolved that such a lamentable state of affairs should not continue, have dispatched to the East the Hon. A. S. Mercer to promote the emigration of young women to those benighted shores. Mr. Mercer has been busy, has consulted with the authorities at Washington, with Gov. Andrew and with other gentlemen interested in philanthropic schemes, and his efforts thus far have resulted satisfactorily.

Mr. Mercer now announces he will transport from New York to Washington Territory free of all charge except the fare across the isthmus three hundred widows and orphans of Union soldiers who have fallen during the war. He will accept only passengers whose good character is vouched for by responsible references. The steamer provided for the transit is safe, swift and roomy, [illegible] and good berths and fares will be provided free. Those accepting Mr. Mercer's invitation will be guaranteed suitable employment at a salary of at least $4 per week from their arrival as long as they choose to avail themselves of it. The party will sail from New York on the [illegible] August, so that it will be well for those thinking favorably of this remarkable offer to take steps to accept it at once. Mr. Mercer may be addressed at the Merchants' Hotel, Courtland street, N. Y., or by persons in this vicinity at Lowell.—[illegible] July 11th.

NOTES ON OVERWORK.—Unwise as [illegible] is the man who considers every hour lost which he has not spent in reading, writing, or in study, and not more rational is she who thinks every moment of her time lost which does not find her sewing. We once heard a man advise that a book of some kind be carried in the pocket, to be used in case of an unoccupied moment—such was his practice. He died early and famous. There are women who after a hard day's work will sit and sew by candle or gas light until their eyes are almost blinded, until certain pains about the shoulders come on, which are almost insupportable, and who are only driven to bed by physical incapacity to work any longer. The sleep of the overworked, like that of those who do not work at all, is unsatisfying and unrefreshing, and both alike wake up to weariness, sadness and languor, with an inevitable result, both dying prematurely. Let no one work in pain or weariness. When a man is tired, he ought to lie down until he is fully rested, when with renovated strength, the work will be better done, the sooner and done with a self-sustaining alacrity. The time taken from seven to eight hours sleep out of each twenty four is time not gained, but time much more than lost. We can cheat ourselves but we cannot cheat nature. A certain amount of food is necessary to a healthy body, but if less than that amount be furnished decay commences the very hour. It is the same with sleep: any one who persists in allowing himself less than Nature requires will only hasten his arrival at the madhouse or the grave.—The [illegible]

SALE OF GOVERNMENT VESSELS.—The sales of vessels lately in the employ of the Government continue in the East, and the prices realized are generally far below their original cost. During the last week in July nine steamers and two schooners which had been attached to the [illegible] flotilla were sold in Washington at prices ranging from $5,200 to $[illegible]. The large side wheel steamer Hydra, a captured [illegible] runner, the side wheel steamer Yankee and the [illegible] Bell were withdrawn as they did not bring their appraised value. At the Portsmouth New Haven, Navy Yard, on the 29th ultimo three steamers built for the Government, two barks and a schooner were sold at from $10,000 to $40,000.

THE LATE PRESIDENT.—The Boston [illegible] announces that enough has been raised in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York to free the estate of the late President to one hundred thousand dollars. It is authorized and requested to say that the active labors of obtaining subscriptions to the Lincoln fund have ceased.

ALLEN'S

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus, CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts, gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.
